Despite the importance in our personal branding being able to accurately represent who we are, a survey by Glenn Llopis Group revealed that less than 15% of people have truly defined their personal brand and less than 5% are living it consistently at work.

"I approached Tavia Sharp to be one of our speakers because of her long history working in men's fashion and her passion for helping men elevate their personal brand through their appearance. If you're looking for a seasoned professional with years of menswear experience to speak at your event, I highly recommend Tavia."

David McKnight, Consultant & Executive Coach

"My session with Tavia was all about time saving, learning about quality over quantity and getting my style where it needed to be both personally and professionally. Tavia helped me go from being unnoticed at the office to landing a promotion in less than 6 months."

Douglas Cajas, Media Sales Exec

Tavia has served as a guest speaker for my young professional mentoring group, Philo4Thought, since 2015, taking the time to share her diversified expertise on branding, networking and personal styling with college students, new grads and burgeoning professionals. Her vibrant, professional demeanor has made her one of our favorite return speakers. It's always a pleasure to work with her and to connect her with our attendees and collaborators!

Chris Salboudis, CEO of Philo4Thought

"I worked with Tavia as my coach and I can tell you that my overall presentation has improved significantly thanks to her observations on my body language and conversation skills. I find that I hold myself more confidently than before, and this alone is helping me get noticed by executives at my job!"
